The Transgender Bill of Rights: Gay Erasure and the End of Childhood Innocence

Red Flags of Reddit: Gay Censorship, Pedo Mods, and Illegal Drugs for Minors

Written by Judith Rose

Reddit, the social bookmarking website, is known for hosting a wide variety of content from politics to porn that virtually anyone can access. These topics are organized into forums known as subreddits, where users can interact with one another using text, links and photos. While users are required to be a minimum of 13 years of age to use Reddit, the social site has no fool proof verification process to keep out even younger users who wander in with a simple lying click. This is the first of many red flags on Reddit and other sites that simply can't verify age while simultaneously hosting a plethora of mature content.

Founded in 2005, Reddit has been through its fair share of drama and scandals amongst users and moderators (also known as 'mods') alike, and is often the source of radicalized thoughts that have spilled into real life behaviors. While subreddits have typically been perceived as safe spaces for specific topics, as social justice movements have ramped up over the years this has proven to be false.

With one stroke of a pen, the Biden Administration has the power to roll back everything that Gays Against Groomers has accomplished so far and make gay erasure the law of the land. Democrats introduced "The Transgender Bill of Rights," which claims to give civil rights to transgender and nonbinary people (TQI+). That sounds rather innocuous. However, one must pause and ask themselves...what rights do transgender people not have? The Biden Administration is doubling down on its Title IX interpretation of "gender identity" and so much worse.

Gays Against Groomers has assisted in passing sixteen regulations, laws, and guidelines that ban "gender identity" from being forced onto children. Across the nation, bills are being introduced that ban child sexualization, mutilation, castration, and amputation of healthy body parts all in the name of "trans rights." All of it is at risk of being rolled back. The "Trans Bill of Rights" was reintroduced and interferes with corresponding policies in the Parents' Bill of Rights and Women's Bill of Rights, which were introduced earlier that same week. This should start setting off alarms. If a movement is crafted to establish "civil rights" that override everybody else's freedoms, then it is a movement that should be able to stand up to some questioning. These so-called "transgender rights" seek to subvert the rights of parents, the rights of women, the rights of gay people, blur sexual boundaries, and replace it all with a queer groomer circus where everything is valid and nobody is allowed to question it. That is what happens when you put "gender identity" into laws – all hell breaks loose.

Why I Joined Gays Against Groomers as the Washington Chapter Lead

Written by Alex Chrostowski

Growing up I was always a tomboy. I helped my dad in the yard, went fishing and hunting, wore boy clothes, and could never sit still. I would often think that I should have been born a boy. Peers would often reinforce this by making me play on the boy teams so that things were 'fair'. I knew from a young age that I was not like the other kids my age. Around eleven years old, I knew I was gay. From the moment I realized this I was honest about my sexuality but I never flaunted it. I did not and still do not consider this as a part of my "identity." My entire life, I have lived with a certain degree of gender dysphoria. I understand the struggle to be comfortable in one's physical body while trying to reconcile that with one's gender expression. Every person struggles to understand themselves and how they want to move through the world. It is not a unique struggle. If I had been growing up in today's world, there is no doubt that I would have thought I was transgender. I would have wanted HRT, I would have wanted to have my breasts removed in favor of a masculine chest.

DID YOU KNOW?

There has been a roughly twenty-fold rise in the number of people seeking transition, with teenagers hugely over-represented.

A 2017 paper reports that "the prevalence of a self-reported transgender identity in children, adolescents and adults ranges from 0.5 to 1.3%, markedly higher than prevalence rates based on clinic-referred samples of adults."

This is reflected in data from gender clinics. The UK's Gender Identity Development Service reported a twenty-fold increase in referrals over the course of the last decade:

This surge was primarily driven by adolescents, with 15 being the most common age of referral.

Our main focus has been banning the transgender medicalization of gender non-conforming minors. Studies show that gender discomfort will alleviate for 80% of these children after they go through puberty and wind up being lesbian, gay, or, bisexual adults. Boys and girls who are socially transitioned before going through puberty are more at-risk of becoming sterile for life. When gender-nonconforming children are not transitioned, 63.4%-88% of the boys grow up to be gay and bisexual men. Females who detransitioned are three times more likely to be lesbians. Gender transition before adulthood is a new form of conversion therapy. And we've helped get it outlawed in five states. Finland, France, England, The Netherlands, Sweden, Ireland, and Switzerland have also been sounding the alarms about this problem.

The Transgender Bill of Rights would reverse all of our hard work and make it a civil right for minors to be sliced open and have their organs removed in all 50 states. It is gay erasure at its finest. We have received multiple reports of girls getting injured at school because they are being forced to compete against boys. Therefore, we assisted in passing a policy that would binarize school sports, on the basis of sex, in order to ensure safety. Not only would the "Transgender Bill of Rights" roll that back, but it would make it illegal for anyone to question the safety of having boys compete against girls. Just like all of the other "civil rights" that the trans community is asking for, mixed-sex trans sports policies are implemented behind parents' backs. Mothers and fathers are not made aware that their daughters are in danger. And voicing any objection to it is labeled as sex harassment, on the basis of "gender identity."

Gays Against Groomers has testified in support of age-appropriate school material and separating boys and girls in facilities, on the basis of sex. We have also removed pornographic material from school libraries. This bill would roll all of that back. It would allow a girl to get undressed in a locker room full of teenage boys without parental consent. No parent in their right mind would consent to such nonsense. But according to "trans rights," parents don't have the opportunity to revoke consent to anything their child does. This bill makes it so parents are not allowed to opt-out of sexualized gender identity school materials being taught to their children and what goes on in the classroom will be kept secret. "Gender identity" also requires schools to use a child's preferred pronoun in the classroom. Not only are they/them trying to destroy free speech, it will also be illegal to not affirm a child's "gender identity." The bill claims that "transgender people" have a civil right to give boys and girls access to pornography at school. THAT IS DISGUSTING.

These "transgender rights" activist lunatics can try all they want, but we will not back down until this movement is destroyed. Gay rights grant gay & lesbian adults the freedom to live our lives as who we are. "Trans rights" force society to rearrange and affirm people as what they are not. It is all about boundary violation, plain and simple. "Trans" is the idea or belief that there exists a hypothetical population of children for whom biology and sexual boundaries are completely irrelevant. And it starts at any age. No such population of people exists. No child has the capacity to consent to a nonsensical movement that seeks to violate their safeguarding in federally-funded institutions. The "Transgender Bill of Rights" would allow male sex offenders to be housed in female prisons – including juvenile hall. In California, a man who went to jail for violating a minor is being housed in a juvenile detention facility for girls.

The first paragraph of this bill literally drops sexual orientation and erases us from the conversation. It explicitly states that people have equality on the basis of sexual orientation [Heterosexual, Homosexual, Bisexual]. It then goes on to say, "whereas despite these protections, transgender people are asking for more." And it never discusses gays, lesbians, gay rights, or its impact on same-sex oriented people throughout the rest of the bill. This was done on purpose. Like women's rights, gay civil rights are categorized under "sex," granting equality to gay and lesbian adults on the basis of sexual orientation. Trans rights, on the basis of "gender identity," apply to children and directly go against sexual orientation protections. Adding "gender identity" to the category of "sex" completely subverts the meaning of sex (male and female) to include a variety of identity labels which do not exist and erase the gays in the process. The word homosexual denotes that we are same-sex oriented and pair with people of the same sex. Same-sex marriage grants us the right to marry one another...on the basis of sex. How can we properly categorize and protect same-sex oriented people if we do not have a proper definition of sex? According to the "Transgender Bill of Rights," men can legally identify as lesbians. That is unacceptable. Sex is binary. There is no third. There is no in-between. There are no subcategories. Humans are female. Humans are male. Everything else is a socially constructed free-for-all with no basis in reality. Men are not lesbians. No thank you.

A similar policy was introduced in Colorado and erased LGB people out of existence. We have been crossed out and replaced by TQI+. Sexual orientation (LGB) was legally eliminated in the eyes of Colorado law and replaced with "gender identity." We fought hard for sex-based civil rights. And now they are being taken away right before our eyes. When we warned people about this, gays and lesbians were told that we were just overreacting. The "trans" community would never do that to us. But as it turns out, that is exactly what they are doing. It has been one the many goals of "gender identity" rights this entire time. We trusted them and we were lied to. The bill cites that trans people have high suicide rates, so letting them destroy everything and butcher children is the only way to prevent the cult members from committing suicide. Everyone must hand over their rights and participate in their delusion...or they will kill themselves. That is abuse.

This week, one democrat stood up and voted in favor of girls not getting hurt in their sports. He stated that he was trying to find a reasonable middle-ground, but the debate seems to be “all or none out there.” Trans rights demand that society must be rearranged and run on the basis of their “gender identity” religion, no matter who they trample in the process. They have forced the American people into submission and refuse to take NO for an answer. Gays Against Groomers helped pass bills across the nation that pump the brakes on anti-gay medical malpractice and child abuse. The trans mafia turned around and introduced a bill that would permanently reverse every single one of those laws and enshrine “gender identity” in all 50 states. This is their way of saying that “trans rights” are an all-or-nothing deal.

Transgender rights, on the basis of gender identity include:

- Unrestricted child sex-changes for tomboys
- Pornographic schools
- “Age-appropriate” child sexual mutilation
- Puberty blockers, sterilizing hormones, and amputation surgeries with no barriers or safeguarding
- Removing children from parents who do not comply with their child’s transgender demands
- Removing free speech
- Erasing women and gay people
- Putting themselves in charge of making rules about the bodily autonomy of children
- Punishing anybody who does not comply

It was unfortunate to find out this way, but at least they are admitting what they actually mean by “trans rights.” They do not want tolerance. They are demanding open-access to vulnerable populations’ sex boundaries in ways they cannot properly consent to. The rights of parents, women, girls, gays, and bisexuals are all being replaced by a sadistic cult that lies to children. Gays Against Groomers is officially blowing the whistle before they make it illegal for us to voice our dissent. The trans rights movement is a pedophile movement.

The bill demands that the people who enforce “transgender rights” must all be transgender themselves – no gays allowed. Men who identify as women will be put in charge of making decisions about how children are groomed and sexually mutilated behind parents’ backs. We constantly hear the phrase “LGBTQI+”...but the first three letters were dropped in the first paragraph. They are making it a crime for gay people to say NO. They conflated a bunch of letters and then told us that this has nothing to do with LGB people; LGB people aren’t allowed to make any of the rules; and LGB people aren’t allowed to disagree with them. That is abusive. They hate us. These are not the same people who fought for gay rights.

The “Transgender Bill of Rights” is sponsored by Movement Advancement Project (MAP). In recent years, there have been reports of pedophiles using the “transgender” movement as a tool to normalize their sick perversion by rebranding themselves as Minor Attracted People (MAP). They claim that just because someone is “attracted to minors” does not mean that they are predatory or harmful to children. They even made their own subcategories like NOMAP (Non-Offending Minor Attracted Person). Any adult who is attracted to minors deserves no representation, no dignity, no lenience, no accommodations, no civil rights, no self-esteem, and no respect at all whatsoever in a healthy society. They should be looked upon with scorn. One of the people in charge of Movement Advancement Project (MAP) is a member of ProStasia, a pedophile organization, and openly identifies as a pedophile herself. Movement Advancement Project’s (MAP) logo is just coincidentally three toy blocks.

If your “civil rights” include putting pornography in schools, then your entire movement is a disgrace. The truth of the matter is that the “trans rights” movement is a failure. It is a dumpster fire. It is a trainwreck. It is the crosstown bus falling off of an overpass. It is a child sexual rights movement that seeks the complete and total bodily autonomy of “transgender and nonbinary people” (minors). Nobody has the civil right to groom and butcher other people’s children. “Transgender rights” is an anti-gay genocidal hate cult run by child predators whose goal runs antithetical to ours. Gays and lesbians, including detransitioners, deserve a public apology from every transgender pig that said, “KIDS AREN’T GETTING SURGERIES! PUBERTY BLOCKERS ARE REVERSIBLE! This isn’t happening!” They lied to us over and over again. We tried to listen and be empathetic. We tried to provide proper accommodations and find a middle-ground that didn’t include grooming an entire generation of boys and girls. But that was not enough. They refuse to take NO for an answer. Gay people are being legally, socially, and hormonally mandated out of existence in the name of “transgender rights.”

They have officially declared war. We were told that in order to accommodate TQI+ people, we should just use their preferred pronouns as an act of politeness. We never consented to having our free speech taken away. We never consented to our erasure. We never consented to pornographic schools. We never consented to silencing parents. We never consented to chopping up children for a bloodthirsty terrorist cult. We never consented to Baby Blue and Baby Pink stripes on our flag, groomer.

This law does NOTHING for gay people. No thank you. Gays Against Groomers is saying NO to so-called “transgender rights.” Their goals have been laid out for everyone. It is sponsored by pedophiles. It would destroy all of the hard work that has gone into our movement over the past eight months and bring us back to square one. We are being given no other options, other than burning this cult to the ground. Roll up your sleeves and get to work. The adults in the room are cleaning up the absolute mess that “gender identity” has created. You’re either with us or against us.

THIS ENDS NOW.

WHO WE ARE

Gays Against Groomers is a 501(c)4 organization of LGB & T people who oppose the recent trend of indoctrinating, sexualizing and medicalizing children under the guise of “LGBTQIA+”

Our community that once preached love and acceptance of others has been hijacked by radical activists who are now pushing extreme concepts onto society, specifically targeting children in recent years.

The overwhelming majority of gay people are against what the community has transformed into, and we do not accept the political movement pushing their agenda in our name.

Gays Against Groomers directly opposes the sexualization and indoctrination of children. This includes drag queen story hours, drag shows involving children, the transitioning and medicalization of minors, and gender theory being taught in the classroom.

The activists, backed by school boards, government, woke media, and corporations, have been speaking on our behalf for too long. When fighting for equality, our goal was to successfully integrate ourselves into society, but now these radicals aim to restructure it entirely in order to accommodate a fringe minority, as well as seek to indoctrinate children into their ideology.

We’re saying NO.

There are millions of gays within the community that want nothing to do with this Alphabet religion and join the fight with parents and concerned people everywhere to protect children. We also aim to return sanity and reclaim the community we once called our own.

The gay community is not a monolith. Those pushing this agenda do not represent or speak for us all, nor do we want to be associated with them in any way. What we are witnessing is mass scale child abuse being perpetrated on an entire generation, and we will no longer sit by and watch it happen.

It is going to take those of us from within the community to finally put an end to this insanity, and that’s exactly what we’re going to do.

In 2020, a subreddit for detransitioners and questioning transgender people was suspended. Detransitioners tend to experience a lot of censorship and hate due to the fact that their perspective often perturbs the LGBTQ+ community by raising too many questions and concerns about the transition process. Remember, you're no longer "allowed" to question or criticize the new LGBTQs.

The suspension was devastating for detrans people who already feel homeless, rejected by the LGBTQ community for even suggesting that transitioning isn't a magical cure for gender dysphoria. Detransitioners like Chloe Cole, who is barely an adult, often receive violent comments including death threats for expressing heartache in hopes of saving youth from the same fate. So the destruction of the one space detrans folks thought they had was an overwhelming stab in the back.

Users flocked to other sites to express their sadness over the suspension. On a site called mumsnet.com, user rogmum lamented: "I'm so upset about this [suspension]. It was the one community and support group detransitioners had...Reddit is nothing more than a TRA/MRA platform now."

After numerous complaints and protests, the r/detrans subreddit was subsequently brought back, and detransitioners tentatively rejoiced, resuming their criticism of the new LGBTQ narrative so dismissive of their questions and pain. Even now, users in the r/detrans subreddit cannot fathom why they are considered pariahs by the trans community specifically, who can't seem to handle healthy discourse.

"It seems to me like the trans community and its allies are just being willfully ignorant at this point," user Enough-Process-2373 wrote in a recent thread. "There is absolutely NO tolerance of other perspectives and any attempts at critical discussion get immediately shot down. If their ideology is so unquestionably correct, then why won't they defend it? When they do defend it, it's so easy to poke holes in their arguments...I can understand it on a surface level, but I only believed in their rhetoric for so long because I was actively in denial. So many pro-trans arguments are so contradictory and straight up illogical. An entire community can't be THAT stupid."

The discussion thread above has been labeled in red as CONTROVERSIAL by Reddit, who haven't exactly been hiding their bias for the neo gay movement. Other threads that have been suspended in the past include r/ActualLesbians, r/GenderCritical and r/truelesbians after several popular LGBTQ+ subreddits experienced prolonged attacks in 2020. These attacks, known as brigades, occur when users from other subreddits coordinate to infiltrate other boards with spam and derogatory comments, manipulating any current polls and otherwise creating a hellish scenario for moderators. One moderator, Aimee Knight, dealt with the fallout of a long brigade on the r/lgbt subreddit at the end of April in 2020, banning 473 users, and removed 1,403 posts and 11,323 comments with co-moderators.

There's just one problem: Aimee Knight is a pedophile sympathizer. Previously known as Aimee Challenor, Knight is a British trans rights activist who is trans herself. According to Google, Aimee was "assigned" male at birth, discovering her trans identity at just 10 years old. In 2018, she was suspended from the Green Party after appointing her father, David Challenor, as an election agent, despite him having been arrested and charged with sexually abusing a 10-year-old girl in 2016. Aimee feigned ignorance and claimed she did not know the full details of the charges against her father before appointing him as her election agent. The Green Party was forced to make a statement and question their safeguarding processes.

Among the dangers children face on a platform like Reddit, access to cross-sex hormones without a prescription is on the list. An account called libsofreddit has taken to Instagram to expose Reddit's illegal trafficking of HRT and puberty blockers to minors, who are looking to bypass health professionals and disapproving parents. The subreddit known as r/TransDIY has taken steps to avoid legal repercussions, stating their Reddit policy against directly marketed goods, including giveaways and private sales. They've also stated that "exact age should be largely irrelevant to the discussion."

This hasn't stopped mods from funneling their followers to medical websites like transfemscience.org, which includes a disclaimer that the writers are not medical professionals nor academic researchers, despite the extensive advice and recommendations for readers as to which drugs to take, where to find them, and a list of related subreddits they call "articles" which are medical in nature. One of the mods on r/TransDIY in question funneling subs to this site is a user called spitirual_cowboy, who also participates in a satire subreddit called r/transgencirclejerk, where they have expressed a love for "tranny porn."

Not only does the r/TransDIY subreddit funnel users to channels where they could potentially access cross-sex hormones illegally, the thread features a "pharmacy" called Okotokono, an illegal pharmacy from Brazil ran by a MtF known as "Lillian." Okotokono has been caught at least once by authorities for illegal HRT shipping, and Lillian, who goes by "Lil_lily" on Reddit, has had to beg users to remove posts referring to Otokonoko deliveries and payments, which include cryptocurrency. Mods of r/TransDIY try their best to keep up and moderate posts about illegal drug trafficking and including minors, but can't always dig deep enough. Minors can still be found asking for help and advice in certain subreddits that inevitably funnel to the same threads.

Every parent needs to know the possibilities on Reddit. Much like many other social websites, it is a double edged sword where users can lift each other up and enable potentially harmful behaviors so they feel "less alone." We feel responsible to raise the alarm regarding Reddit's protection of predators in the name of LGBTQ. Children should not have access to this kind of encouragement to make life changing decisions with no adult supervision. These people do not represent all of us, and we find these behaviors shocking and abhorrent. From questionable mods, to selling drugs to children, to censorship of traditional gay people, Reddit has no shame in sanctioning reckless behaviors. Please be aware of these red flags on Reddit.

I would have wanted to live my life as a man. This would have been a devastating mistake. My struggle was, and continues to be, learning what being female means to me and how I choose to interact with the world.

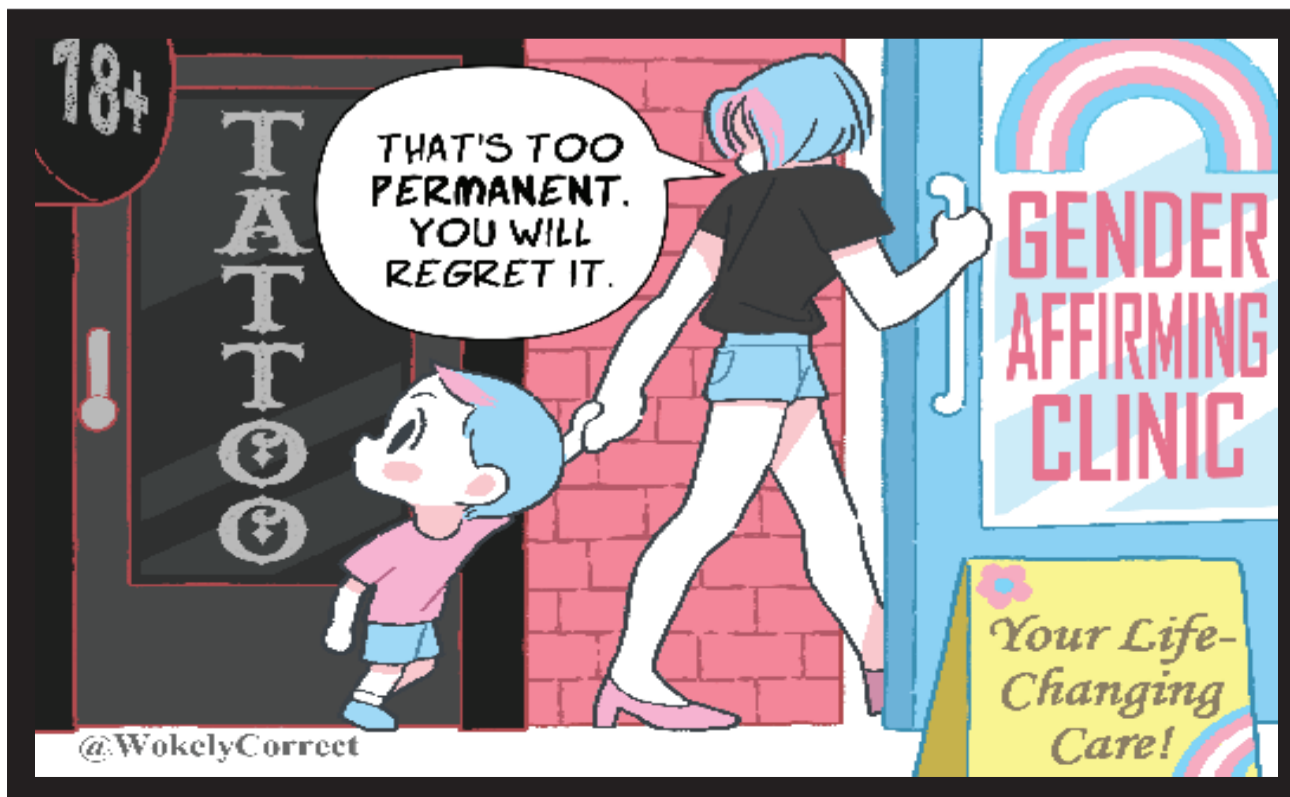

Today I am a confident and self-assured lesbian woman. I am married to a wonderful woman and we have three beautiful children together. It took many years of silent and internal struggle to be comfortable with myself exactly as I am. There is no greater gift than finding peace with yourself. As a parent I strive to instill pride, confidence, competence, resilience, reasoning, empathy and, above all, love and reverence in my children. It is especially difficult to instill this in my daughters.

I knew from my time in college that the rise of woke radical gender theory was emerging. I found it to be ridiculous and distasteful when I was young, but as a parent it is absolutely horrifying to see what it has evolved into. You have teachers pushing the idea that all feelings are valid. This is embodied in the Affirmation Model adopted by mental health advocates. I can think of nothing worse than to tell a child that every thought and feeling that they have is valid. That is horrific. I teach my children to regulate and evaluate their feelings and to test their thoughts against reason. This makes them less reactive, less prone to emotional outbursts and allows them to have better footing when trying to express their thoughts and ideas. No parent or responsible adult should ever blindly affirm a child's thoughts and feelings as fact.

My now ex-wife and I have taken great measures in order to protect our children's innocence while fostering in them the skills that will allow them to grow into competent, independent and compassionate adults who are free to shape their own destiny and pursue their dreams relentlessly. I have seen how difficult it is for parents in Washington State to raise their children with the values and morals that they wish to impart, and to combat an ideology that defies logic and reason at every turn.

I joined Gays Against Groomers because I wanted to add my voice to many. As a gay parent it is an obligation, a duty, to protect kids from the predations of a destructive ideology that at best confuses them and at worse irreparably harms them.

Radical Gender and Queer Theory is harmful to children. Not only does it groom children into seeing the world through a particular lens, but it teaches that reality itself is subjective. The ways in which gender theory and trans identity are being taught in classrooms are confusing to children. These ideas defy logic and reason in deference to subjective internal feelings. The danger with this logic when brought to its ultimate conclusion is that nothing can be true, and nothing can be false. This destroys a child's ability to make sense of the world. That is how you have large, muscular men with facial hair who dye their hair and wear feminine clothing able to claim that they are women. How can a child argue? If that's how a person feels, then that is their reality...right? WRONG. Children need rules of the road, they need guardrails in order to begin driving down the road of life with confidence. When you throw children straight into off road driving, they are bound to crash, and sometimes that crash is devastating and comes with life long consequences. One of the most fundamental truths of our world is that the majority of life on earth exists in a sexual binary of female and male. Humans, and the vast majority of the other binary species, are unable to change from one sex to another. This is a fundamental truth, and to teach children anything else is to their great detriment. I, and many parents like me, are refusing to be quiet and are refusing to let radicals speak for us. The radical and fanatic LGBTQIA+ activists do not speak for me, they do not speak for my children, they do not speak for you. They speak on behalf of themselves and their twisted world view, and I am making a vow as a parent and before my God that I will fight against this for the well being of all children.

Meet the Founder and President of Gays Against Groomers

Jaimee Michell

Jaimee Michell is an American lesbian activist with over 6 years experience as a prominent figure in the culture war. Prior to Gays Against Groomers, she was best known as her online persona, The Gay Who Strayed, where she accumulated over 240,000 followers combatting woke ideology. She has now made it her life's mission to end the sexualization, indoctrination and medicalization of children being done under the guise of LGBTQIA+

Top 7 Reasons to Join Gays Against Groomers

If you're feeling fired up and inspired by our cause, here are 7 reasons to join our rapidly expanding movement:

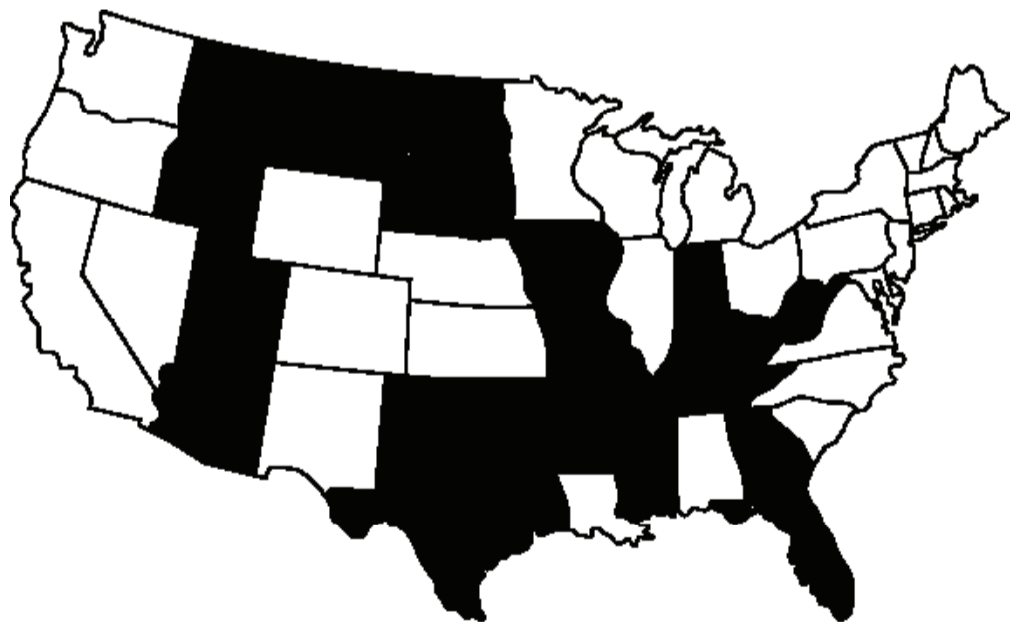

1. You are gay and find yourself uncomfortable with the over saturation of gay culture, gender ideology, and sexual content being pushed on children.
2. You don't believe the gay community is a monolith.
3. You're feeling isolated from the community because of your beliefs.
4. You or someone you love have been negatively affected by the pressures of gender ideology and LGBTQ+ related "woke" culture.
5. You feel like gay people are being erased through over-saturated trans ideology.
6. You're secure in your identity and willing to be a pillar of strength.
7. You're ready to speak up for those who can't speak for themselves.

Finding Common Ground: Bridging the Political Gap

Written by Judith Rose

One of the biggest challenges Gays Against Groomers faces as an organization is reaching as many people as possible from as many walks of life as we can. We face opposition from not just the far left, but the far right of the spectrum of people who do not see eye to eye with us. Even internally, not all of our members agree on every single issue, and that's okay! The last thing we want to be is a hivemind group, but the psychological operations coursing through society have programmed even those among us to operate from emotions before logic, and turn against their peers.

This variety of opposition was expected from day one. We hear the same arguments day in and day out from extremists everywhere. While it becomes exhausting and unnecessary to cater to people bent on waging war against us, several of these arguments or comments are easily addressed, debunked or refuted. For example, we laugh in the faces of people convinced this is not a grassroots movement run by members of the LGBT community. This is so easily disproved it isn't worth addressing.

One of our oppositions' favorite arguments is to bring up sexual abuse by priests in the Catholic church. Sadly in today's society, it is common knowledge that a certain percentage of priests commit sexual crimes involving minors in their church community. And because we don't make these priests our main target, some people make a hobby out of accusing us of not caring about it. While Gays Against Groomers is against all abuse committed by any kind of child groomer, our main focus is the abuse within the gay community, hence our name.

Let's look at the statistics of church abuse versus abuse that occurs where children are heavily present: school. According to abuselawsuit.com, from 1950-2002 nearly 4,400 priests were accused of sexual abuse of a minor, which makes up 4% of Catholic priests serving the church during this time period. A small percentage of these priests actually did time for their crimes; most of us know this is because the church frequently covers for them. Oftentimes these priests are simply moved to another church, where they are able to continue their crimes.

We've been hearing about abuse by Catholic priests from the media on a regular basis. So where is the group against these crimes that have gone on for so long? Shouldn't it have a strong platform by now? What are they doing to end the abuse within their community? Or is the percentage just small enough to be ignored, only to be used as a strawman argument against an organization focused on a different community?

Now let's discuss abuse within the school system, which children occupy daily, not just a few times a week for a church service. Since 2014, sexual abuse from educators has been on the rise. "48 Hours" investigated abuse on the rise from female educators in particular, a stigma that often gets taken less seriously due to the double standards of gender expectations. In many instances, teachers who abuse students are often the most respected in their community, receiving awards like "Teacher of the Year." The Education Department report from nearly 20 years ago claimed that over 9.5% of students experience sexual misconduct by an educator during their school career. Almost 350 K-12 educators were arrested for child sex crimes in 2022 alone.

In this case, a group against this abuse exists called Stop Educator Sexual Abuse Misconduct & Exploitation (SESAME). On their website, you will find some alarming statistics regarding the millions of students facing sexual abuse by their educators nationwide. Of course, not all of these children go to church or are part of an outside community, which makes school the priority regarding their safety.

Recently, there has been a new factor that has entered education: "queer" ideology and gender theory. With this came a wave of teachers who claim they know better than the parents of their students, driving a wedge into families by encouraging students to keep secrets, leaving parents in the dark and in denial.

DID YOU KNOW?

Nearly 6,000 US public schools are employing guidance policies that block parents from seeing whether their child identifies as a different gender.

More than 3.2 million US public school students are covered by guidance that blocks parents from knowing whether their child identifies as a different gender in the classroom — which could become federal policy if President Biden's Title IX proposals are approved in May.

At least 168 districts governing 5,904 schools nationwide have rules on the books that prevent faculty and staff from disclosing to parents a student's gender status without that student's permission, according to a list compiled by the group Parents Defending Education.

Many disturbing behaviors are exposed regularly, from teachers who claim 80% of their class “came out” as trans or gay (which is statistically impossible and a symptom of a psychological contagion), to teachers who have their students pledge allegiance to the inclusive rainbow flag over the flag that represents all of us as Americans, to teachers caught giving puberty blockers to students without their parents consent or knowledge [source]. These behaviors are equivalent to child abuse, and do not represent the true LGBT community, who do not attempt to actively “recruit” youth.

School is where children are supposed to be safe, educated in a neutral environment and equipped with basic skills to enter the next phase of education. It is not a place where parents need to worry about their children being exposed to sexual materials they’re not ready for or don’t even approve of. Knox Zajak, an 11 year old sixth grader in Maine, recently exposed a sexually explicit book he was given by a school librarian that detailed sex acts between two teenage boys. He was asked by the adult librarian if he wanted more pornographic books. It seems these explicit materials are given a pass simply because they fall under the LGBTQ umbrella.

Meanwhile, in New York, a fifth grade teacher is being sued by the parents of a student she attempted to “convert” using a book that taught young students about the transgender identity and how to access hormones as well as sex-changing surgeries. The student, born a biological female, became confused and suicidal, drawing a picture of a girl and writing “I want to kill myself” underneath. [source]

One of the biggest fallacies perpetuated by the radical ideology is the idea that unless underage children are given access to puberty blocking hormones and body altering surgeries, they will end their lives. However, a percentage of transitioners do experience complications and regret that lead to further suicide ideation, a statistic these people love to sweep under the rug and ignore. And clearly students like the little girl in New York are only further confused by being introduced to these concepts. Perhaps the lives of these individuals don’t matter simply because it does not support the false narrative that being gay or trans solves all problems. Chloe Cole, a well known detransitioner, regularly receives death threats and violent comments for attempting to protect minors from the damage and trauma she went through on her journey to discover herself.

What Gays Against Groomers wants its audience to understand is that we too are coming from a place of compassion and concern, just as the far left and far right claim to be. The idea that kids will be happier gay or trans is not necessarily an idea that we support, nor do we support the erasure of all gay people. That is why we have to do our best to meet in the middle for the sake of the children. “Gender affirming care” for minors may sound like a good idea on the outside, but behind the curtain are sinister motives that often trace back to dollar signs in the eyes of greedy corporations looking to turn children into permanent medical patients. Isn’t that worth considering?

One major source of confusion about our organization is how we stand on transsexual adults. We have stated many times that adults are free to make their own choices, and these individuals are still worthy of respect and compassion as long as they do not actively influence youth. The perspective of trans individuals is vital in understanding how this choice would affect an underdeveloped child. We do not support hating on these individuals for simply existing; this type of hate will never help us move forward in today’s society. We will continue to sound the alarm on the obvious groomers within our community, which may or may not claim the trans identity. At the end of the day, children are more important than our feelings regarding adult decisions.

We understand that religious beliefs are a factor in what parents do or don’t want their children exposed to. We respect these beliefs, and believe all parents have a right to know what their children are being taught and to approve the materials. As gay people, we are not going away, but we will stand hand in hand with you to push back against and police our own community, and make education safer and more neutral for all children. You don’t have to like us, and you don’t have to approve of who we love as consenting adults, but the most mature thing we can do is set aside our differences for the safety and innocence of the children that will build our future.

It is also our belief that all drag shows belong in adult spaces only. Drag is and always has been inherently sexual nightlife behavior. We’ve recently seen an influx of scantily clad and obscene performers around very young children, which some parents are explaining away with excuses like “this won’t affect them.” If that’s the case, why aren’t children allowed inside of strip clubs? Because children do not belong around nearly nude and fully nude performers. Not all of these performers are a danger to children, but we cannot ignore the drag queens that have already been caught in sex crimes against minors, and the overly sexual performers who insist on performing for children. These people are not exempt from scrutiny. No one is.

We also cannot find a good reason for drag queens’ desire to perform or read books in front of children. Where are the story book characters, puppet shows or clowns? What happened to age appropriate entertainment? Why do progressives believe drag queens are essential to teach children acceptance? We still haven’t heard an appropriate answer. Instead, children are being taught that this over-the-top sexual behavior is a fun and acceptable way to earn validation from others. It is abhorrent that the risks of this even needs explaining. We urge parents to consider these risks, and leave the kids at home when attending drag shows.

Many of us care about the same things differently. The far left is indoctrinating children under the guise of “care” for their wellbeing. The far right wants this indoctrination to stop for the same reason, but wants to erase LGB and T people entirely, which isn’t realistic, and can also drive a wedge into the family unit. So many people are operating from personal emotions, beliefs and trauma that they project onto children without understanding how differently they can be affected. Young and sensitive minds don’t know how to discern what adults are doing and why, but gravitate to whatever glitters like gold and makes them feel “safe and accepted,” regardless of true intentions. We see gender ideology and queer theory as nothing but nefarious agendas designed to confuse children, leaving them vulnerable and easily manipulated. Children see these topics as fun and attractive but are unable to have a clear understanding of what they truly mean. It’s imperative that education on these topics remain age appropriate, so as not to overwhelm underage children who are easily influenced.

Children deserve a neutral education that won’t cause more inner turmoil than they face on average without excessive outside influence. Growing up is hard, but natural puberty is integral for healthy development, and the information on puberty blockers is incomplete or biased at best. Lupron, a popular puberty blocker, is used to chemically castrate pedophiles in prison. These chemicals are often advertised as “safe,” with serious side effects briefly mentioned or left out by doctors eager to create a permanent medical patient. If there is a risk at all, why are children still being subjected to drugs that could potentially sterilize or sexually cripple them for life?

Our organization does not believe these explicit materials, medicalizing procedures, or over saturation of “queer” ideologies are necessary for development. It certainly wasn’t for us to decide who we were. It is time to recognize that we don’t have to agree on everything to protect children. Their safety should not be politicized. We must find a neutral ground if we ever expect to win this war on innocence. We need boundaries and legislation in place to protect minors from these dangers. If you can agree with us on these points, please stand with us as we hold our own community responsible and push back on this dangerous trend to protect all children. Let’s come together for the sake of future generations.

The Truth About “Anti-LGBTQ+” Bills

Written by Michael Costa

According to trans and queer activists, the United States is currently passing an overwhelming amount of “Anti-trans” or “Anti-LGBTQ+” laws. However, upon viewing these bills, it becomes evident that the majority of them are aimed at protecting children from medical malpractice, no longer allowing parents to bring their children to age-inappropriate events, discontinuing the use of dangerous medications that are being banned in multiple countries, prohibiting surgical conversion therapy on minors, and maintaining the legal framework that same-sex rights for gays and lesbians are built upon. Why are laws that benefit homosexuals, gay/lesbian families, gender nonconforming youth, and full equality for lesbian women are being dishonestly labeled as “anti-trans?”

Gender Affirming Care for Minors: Gays Against Groomers agrees with a lot of the bills being passed in order to end child medicalization and transitioning gender nonconforming children at school without their parents’ permission. Bans on “gender-affirming care” on minors have been put forward in Indiana, Mississippi, Kansas, Kentucky, North Dakota, Missouri, Oklahoma, New Hampshire, Nebraska, Oregon, South Dakota, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Tennessee, Indiana, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, West Virginia, and Wyoming.

Medicalizing gender nonconforming children before they reach adulthood is medical malpractice and homophobic abuse. Research shows that the majority of these children will grow up to be gay and lesbian adults. Something that most gay people have in common is that we were gender nonconforming as children and knew that we were different from our peers early on. “Childhood gender variance” is 8 to 15 times higher for gay adults and these results have been replicated in recent studies, as well. Most gay men express more stereotypically feminine traits in childhood (Skidmore et al., 2006).” A follow-up study of nearly 140 gender dysphoric boys showed an 88% desistance rate after going through puberty, and most of them were just gay or bisexual adults. There have been multiple whistleblowers and court cases, warning that “They Are Sterilizing Gay Kids.” There is even one case of professionals implying that “Soon, we won’t have any gay people left.”

There have even been parents who claimed that they would rather have a straight daughter than a feminine gay son. If gender (masculinity and femininity) is a social construct, then why does it need to be medicalized at an age when a child still believes in Santa Claus? There is currently an emerging population of gay/lesbian detransitioned adults who were medicalized as kids and dealing with the aftermath of being experimented on when they were not even old enough to get a tattoo. Banning these procedures is protecting more gay and lesbian adults from having to go through what these detransitioners are experiencing. Our community is beginning to suffer because of these inhumane medical practices.

“Family Friendly” Drag Queen Performances: Over the past year, there has been a very alarming emergence of public adult cabaret performances, which are being advertised as “family friendly.” These events are provocative, overtly sexual, unsuitable for children, tasteless, and crude. The parents who are enthusiastically bringing their children to these events have been repeatedly made aware of how inappropriate it is and now the government needs to get involved. Referring to these performances as “pro-LGBTQIA+” is an insult. Interestingly enough, a lot of these events are funded by child sex-change services, pharmaceutical companies, and “trans rights” organizations (for children). Drag was always something for gay adults and is now being used by the trans lobby to influence children. If a small child is told that crossdressing and using a different name/pronoun is empowering, then this could encourage them to adopt a trans identity at an age where this is too complicated to understand. Children should not be exposed to this content due to the crude nature of these performances.

We do not take issue with people dressing or acting in ways that do not conform to gender stereotypes. We think that everyone should be able to wear whatever they like, in accordance to what is/isn’t publicly appropriate to be shown around children. We support the proposed bills banning these events currently being enacted in Arizona, Arkansas, Tennessee, South Carolina, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, and West Virginia.

State Recognition of Biological Sex: Multiple states like Mississippi, New Hampshire, North Dakota, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Oklahoma are trying to pass bills that legally define “sex” as being male or female, instead of one’s self-declared “gender identity” or “queer identity.”

Replacing sex with vague terms defines gays and lesbians out of existence in the law. By preserving laws relative to state recognition of biological sex, homosexual people are protected on this basis. Same-sex rights are sex-based rights. When clear definitions of biological sex are removed, then the well-deserved equal rights of same-sex oriented men and women are also changed. We fought hard to get legal protections for being same-sex oriented. And now those rights are being taken away. Preservation of these rights is pro-gay. The notion that this is “anti-LGBTQIA+” is a lie, unless you believe that the first two letters of the acronym no longer matter. In Mississippi, this is being done through Bill MS SB2076: The Title IX Preservation Act. Oklahoma’s proposed solution involves “creating the Women’s Bill of Rights,” which was originally introduced in collaboration with a Lesbian-founded organization whose work includes “supporting the needs of lesbian and bisexual women.” The purpose of the bill is to protect females, including lesbians, in schools, sports, and prisons.

If fairness and equality for gay men and lesbian women is considered “anti-trans,” then what does that say about how the trans lobby views the rights of homosexuals? We support the proposed bills in these states and would like to see them implemented on a national level and begin to restore common sense and rationality to our community. We have thousands of gay people who are on our side and America needs to do the right thing. Right is right and wrong is wrong.

It is not a right to sexualize and mutilate children. It is not anti-LGBTQ to pass legislation to protect them. It is not anti-trans to be in favor of the rights and safety of children, families, gay men, and lesbian women.

Recent Wins for Our Local Chapters

Chris Barrett, our chapter leader in Missouri logged a win by getting an all-ages drag show shut down in Warrensburg, MO. He gave an excellent speech in Johnson County and the drag event was changed to admit only those 18+ — as it should have from the beginning!

Over in Illinois, our chapter leader, Patrick Sheridan, with your help, got on the phone to protest against Mario themed, all-ages drag brunches at Macy's. After lighting up the phones and letting Macy's know this was not okay, the event dropped the Mario theme and stopped advertising the shows as all-ages.

In North Carolina, chapter leader Brian Talbert got boots on the ground to protest yet another all-ages drag show. Seriously, how many of these exist? Thankfully, we have dedicated gays and allies around the country ready to fight back and keep adult shows restricted to adults.

We can't wait to see what our team will accomplish next!
